

INTER-LIFE RELATIONSHIPS

By William Becker, Paranormal Insights

The past- and between-life work I've been doing with someone has come up with some interesting concepts. I have the person's permission to talk about the ideas and what we've come up with on the condition of maintaining anonymity. I'll use a masculine gender form simply for ease. The person's actual gender I won't identify for privacy's sake.

The subject of the readings has come to identify a being who visits him regularly and is his soul mate. The two have been romantically involved during multiple lives. When together in the same physical plane, they form a deep and intertwined oneness that is rare to find and beautiful to see. At this time, his soul mate comes to visit from another realm. He seems to be between lives at this point in time.

When together sharing a life, my subject and his soul mate have a love bond that permeates every aspect of their beings. The love manifests in many ways beyond description, but includes total understanding and acceptance of each other. There is a gentleness of existence together that they carry over into other aspects of their lives. There is no bitterness, jealousy, hurt, anger ... just a beautiful pure state that is mutually supportive and freeing as it also creates an amazing unity.

We have been looking at this connection to see if it has influenced his romantic relationships in this life. This person has dated quite a bit in his present incarnation, but has had little success in finding someone with whom to form a long-term relationship. And, he isn't clear that the possibility actually exists for him. He hasn't met anyone who he feels that deep, soul connection with. And, he has rarely seen a relationship he's known well that has the dynamics and substance he wants in one.

One of the variables that may make a difference in this case is that the subject has a guide in one area that seems to also be that soul mate. Has that psychic connection with a soul mate guide in another realm further influenced his ability to settle for something that isn't as fulfilling as he once had? We think it might.

Just how do the past lives with the soul mate influence the current life without one? Although we think it varies for different people, for some at least it seems that subconsciously they aren't willing to settle for less than they had before. They may not have a conscious memory of those other lives, but the soul memory seems to continue and bring a sense of dissatisfaction for anything less.

This is not necessarily a negative. The person I've been working with has a sense of relief knowing that the reason he hasn't found true love in this life might have more to do with having had such perfect love in the past, that anything less just isn't attractive.

This knowledge has helped him to realize that the issue is not so much him, as it is he was simply born into a life that he doesn't share with the love of his being. ♦